On August 9th, 2012, in Montreal, Quebec, the CHLPA (Canadian Hockey League Players Association) was officially formed. An official constitution was adopted and accepted by the players of the CHL/OMJHL, OHL, and the WHL. The PA then proceeded to elect its board members, and form their very first bargaining committee.

After numerous months of interviews and player surveys, the CHLPA has been supported and adopted by the majority of the players, and the agents that represent the players.

The player's support on this venture has been overwhelming, and we fully expect to have the majority of the players signed up within the next coming days.

The CHLPA fully expects the CHL and its member's clubs to recognize the PA as the official bargaining agent on behalf of the PA. If not, the PA is fully prepared to make an application to the labour board in each of the respective areas, including the USA.

During this time, the PA has conducted extensive interviews in search of the person that best reflects the CHLPA Mission and Mandate for the players of the PA. Having said that, in the interim, the PA, along with the support of the player's agents, will finalize the sign-up process that is required across Canada to make the necessary application at the labour board.

The goal for the PA is to achieve a fair and economically sound education package, without restrictions, for each player. Also, to not only negotiate with the CHL, but with Hockey Canada as well, for their use of the players in international events, to help support a better education package for all the players of the PA.

The PA feels that there is NO reason why players should have so many restrictions on the use of their education packages. As it stands now, the player, upon finishing his playing career, must execute that package in 18 months or forfeit it. That is one of the many unacceptable conditions in the standard contract as it stands now.

All players regardless of age, race, religion or creed, are represented by the CHLPA.

MISSION STATEMENT FOR CHLPA

"To represent all CHL players in a manner that is fair and equitable, always keeping in mind the physical, mental, educational and financial well-being of each player, now and in the future."
